

TRANSPORT NETWORKS

The Port of Nagoya has container transportation networks connecting with many countries and regions all over the world. Regular container liner routes to the North America West Coast, Europe, East Asia are in service (as of June 2026).

The Port of Nagoya, located at the center of Japan, has the vast Chubu Region as its hinterland. The Isewangan Expressway crossing through the Port of Nagoya connects to major economic areas in the east, west and other parts of Japan.

This excellent accessibility makes quick delivery possible. Domestic trade with all parts of Japan is possible through utilization of comprehensive road networks and coastal shipping routes.